

Drawn to the Land: Homesteading Dakota

A Traveling exhibit from the South Dakota State Historical Society
Will be at the North Sioux City Community Library
April 13th - May 22nd.

Settlers in front of a claim shack. Photo Courtesy of the State Archives of the South Dakota State Historical Society.

From 1860 to 1920, thousands of homesteaders poured into Dakota from across the country and overseas. Many stayed, making a home for themselves and their descendants. Stop in the Library and see historic photographs, artifact images and text to tell the story of the homesteading experience in Dakota.

Settlers in front of a tar paper claim shack. Photo Courtesy of the State Archives of the South Dakota State Historical Society.

This exhibit is being brought to the library by the Friends of the NSC Library